ARCHITECTURE FOR KIDS

Club Description

Led by Olympia Georgoudaki, an architect and urban planner with over 15 years of experience in Switzerland, this workshop introduces children to the art of architecture—designing, planning, and building structures and communities. Through hands-on projects and games, children will develop skills in decision-making, problem-solving, and sustainable thinking. Each session includes a creative segment where children design themed or self-chosen projects, and a play-based segment with games to deepen their spatial understanding. At the end of each project, children present their ideas, answering questions to build confidence and improve self-expression. Architecture inspires creativity, fosters critical thinking, and teaches the value of sharing and advocating for ideas—skills that last a lifetime.
